ORGANIZING SCHOOL AND UNIVERSITY

The University School of Law and Legal Studies (USLLS) of the prestigious Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University (GGSIPU) is organizing the conference to commemorate the occasion of International Women's Day. Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University is one of the five state universities of Government of National Capital Territory of Delhi established on 28 July 1998. It is a UGC recognized and NAAC accredited 'A' Grade University. GGSIPU has been imparting professional education leading to Bachelor, Masters, and Doctoral research degrees in the emerging fields of Management, Environmental Management, Biotechnology, Medicine, Pharmacy, Law and Legal Studies and Education.

AIM OF THE CONFERENCE

Despite efforts by the government, democratic institutions, and other key stakeholders, structural impediments to gender equality exist, and gender-based discrimination persists. Efforts to improve gender equality are sometimes thwarted by patriarchal attitudes and discriminatory practices. Stereotypes are deeply embedded in society. Gender equality progress is hampered even more by a lack of gender data, political will, and a complete integration of gender considerations in reforms, planning, and budgeting.

The University School of Law and Legal Studies aims to organize the present conference to serve as a platform for academicians, scholars, students, civil society organizations etc. to discuss, deliberate and brainstorm feminist jurisprudence and the road ahead.

THEMES

We welcome original and unpublished contributions from academicians, students/scholars and practitioners for the conference. The suggested themes under the topic of the conference are:
